Summer Safety

Summer is here! The weather is getting hot and the sun is shining! Do you know the best ways to prevent skin injury from the sun? According to the North Shore University Health System these facts can save your skin!

1. Only broad-spectrum sunscreen of SPF 15+ can protect skin from UVA and UVB rays.
2. The sun's rays are their strongest from 10AM-4PM. Limit your time in the sun during these hours.
3. Sunscreen expires within 2-3 years but your bottle shouldn't last for that long. A family of 4 should use an entire bottle of sunscreen during a long weekend.
4. It only takes 10 minutes for a baby's skin to burn, but sunscreen is not safe for infants under 6 months. Keep babies out of the sun.
5. It takes sunscreen, on average, 30 minutes to soak into the skin and work effectively.
6. You still need sunscreen on a cloudy day. 80% of the sun's rays can pass through clouds and fog
7. Water-resistant sunscreen is not water-resistant forever. You need to reapply after only 80 minutes in the water.
